INTRODUCTION

The U.S. Department of State's Office of Children's Issues serves as the U.S. Central Authority (USCA) under the 1980 Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction (Convention). In April 2024, the Department submitted its Annual Report on International Child Abduction (Annual Report) pursuant to the Sean and David Goldman International Child Abduction Prevention and Return Act (the Act).

Pursuant to 22 U.S.C. § 9122(c)(4), the Department submits this Action Report on International Child Abduction to Congress on the specific actions taken in response to countries determined to have been engaged in a pattern of noncompliance as defined by the Act.

The 2024 Annual Report provided an overview of the Department's efforts to support the resolution of international parental child abduction (IPCA) cases involving children whose habitual residence is reported to be the United States. We also reported on our engagement with foreign governments and authorities to promote procedures to encourage the prompt resolution of existing IPCA cases with the aim that, in general, international custody disputes should be resolved in the competent court of the country of the child's habitual residence. Further, the 2024 Annual Report discussed the Department's efforts to prevent abductions in coordination with foreign governments, law enforcement agencies, and airlines.

The Department's work does not end with the publication of the Annual Report. In countries that do not meet their Convention obligations or fail to work with the USCA to resolve IPCA cases, the Department takes appropriate actions as listed in the Act. In addition, the Department takes actions that are consistent with how we advance U.S. foreign interests in other high-priority areas. We establish and maintain communications, we identify challenges, we exchange information and technical expertise, and we press countries to meet their Convention obligations and resolve abduction cases. This report outlines these actions to address systematic obstacles to the resolution and deterrence of IPCA.

THE DEPARTMENT'S ACTION REPORT ON INTERNATIONAL PARENTAL CHILD ABDUCTION

Diplomatic engagement is often our most effective tool to assist in resolving IPCA cases. We take every appropriate opportunity to raise these cases with foreign government officials at the highest appropriate levels, and to ensure that the foreign government understands the U.S. government's concern for the welfare of U.S. citizens overseas, especially children.

The Department continues to refine strategies for U.S. government engagement with numerous countries on IPCA. These country strategies provide a whole-of-government approach to combat and resolve abductions. We tailor each strategy to that country's evolving political and cultural environment.

Department professionals work with government officials in countries not yet party to the Convention, to encourage them to join the Convention and to resolve existing abduction cases. For Convention partners, we actively promote compliance with the Convention. In many countries, these efforts are producing results in handling IPCA cases.

We also seek to partner, when appropriate, with countries that have already joined the Convention. In this Action Report, we share the specific actions the United States has taken regarding the countries we cited in the 2024 Annual Report for demonstrating a pattern of noncompliance and report on IPCA issues in these countries.

As a result of this failure, 50 percent of requests for the return of abducted children under the Convention remained unresolved for more than 12 months. Argentina was previously cited for demonstrating a pattern of noncompliance in the 2015-2023 Annual Reports.

REPORT OF ACTIONS TAKEN:

Department officials, in Washington and at U.S. Embassy Buenos Aires, continued to raise concerns with Government of Argentina officials at senior levels about Argentina's demonstration of a pattern of noncompliance.

This demarche highlighted Argentina's persistent failure to comply with its Convention obligations. In particular, the demarche noted longstanding U.S. concerns with serious judicial delays and an Argentine legal system that allows multiple appeals both on the merits of the decision and on how decisions are enforced. This year's demarche called attention to one case which remained unresolved for more than 13 years.

Also in May 2024, the Special Advisor for Children's Issues traveled to Argentina for a series of high-level meetings with Argentine officials, including senior officials within the Argentine Foreign Ministry and the Second Vice President of the Chamber of Deputies of Argentina, on international parental child abduction.
